Judging

Article 8

Each year, the Chairman of the BVA appoints the jury and its president, such appointment reflecting the criteria mentioned in article 4. The members of the jury will declare to be bound by this rulebook. A member of the jury who has participated in the review of a submitted essay at university level will communicate this to the president of the jury who will decide, taking all aspects into consideration, whether that member can still take part in the judgment process and if so, under what circumstances. The president's decisions will be binding to that member, who has the right to resign in case he/she does not agree with that decision.

Article 9

Essays are only qualified for evaluation by the jury when they:

1. Have been evaluated with "distinction" ("onderscheiding, cum laude") by a Belgian university before they are submitted;
2. Comply with the requirements of article 12.

Article 10

The jury has the right not to award the BVA Essay Award in case of insufficient quality of the submitted essays.

Article 11

The jury has the right to seek the advice of external experts when judging the essays, provided these persons declare to be bound by this rulebook. The jury is allowed to ask oral presentations from the candidates having submitted an essay, but has no obligation to do so nor to hear all candidates. It also has the right to enter into contact with the professors or lecturers having reviewed the candidates' essays. The jury does however have the obligation to uphold a fair judgment process for all candidates.

Execution

Article 12

Essays must be:

1. Submitted in either Dutch, French or English with an executive summary in at least the same language;
2. Submitted electronically by the date set each year by the BVA Essay Award jury (by email to the BVA, Mrs. Hilde Vandermeulen, hilde@bva.be);
3. Accompanied by proof that the essay was evaluated with “distinction” (“onderscheiding, cum laude” or similar quotation) or higher grade by a Belgian university at the most one year before the submission date;
4. Accompanied by a recommendation letter by a university professor or lector (having participated in the evaluation of the essay as mentioned in sub paragraph 3 above);
5. First time submissions to the BVA Essay Award;
6. Accompanied by at least the following information: first name and surname of the author, full address, telephone number, e-mail address and teaching institute.

The jury is allowed to derogate from the principles set out in this article 12 in a discretionary manner.

Article 13

Participants receive a confirmation of receipt of their entry and whether such essay fulfilled all criteria for submission. Before the final judgment is made public, the participants will be informed whether or not they are nominated for the “shortlist”. The final results are made public at the BVA Presidents’ Meeting of March and will be made public through the website of the BVA or other means.

Award

Article 14

The winner of the BVA Essay Award receives the amount as set forth each year by the BVA Board, which could also decide to provide an award to the other nominees. The winner agrees to provide his/her assistance to the jury or the BVA, to a reasonable extent, to make publicity for his/her essay.

The jury has no obligation to motivate the granting of the BVA Essay Award to a certain candidate, but is entitled to do so. The jury has no obligation to enter into discussions with any candidate. Candidates accept the judgment of the jury as final and binding, and will refrain from making comments about it in public or taking any other action.

Final clause

Article 15

The president of the jury is competent to make any decision in relation to any event or circumstance not provided for in this rulebook after consultation with the BVA President. The BVA board is always allowed to make any amendments to this rulebook, such amendments taking immediate effect. Any discussions about the BVA Essay Award, this rulebook or its application can only be submitted to the BVA board which has no obligation to rule on it or to comment on any decision it would take in such matter. Neither the rulebook nor the organization of the BVA Essay Award can create any obligation or liability for the BVA, or any of its members or agents. All costs for the organization of the BVA Essay Award will however be borne by the BVA or an entity which it designates, provided that such costs were made with the explicit prior approval of the BVA or the designated entity.
